as we see it

Bill Boyd (Hopalong Cassidy to most of us) is making a world tour. In Australia, recently, he said this:

"I understand that in the near future television will go into operation here in Australia. Believe me—the sooner it comes, the better. It is obvious that television provides a source of tremendous entertainment, and it provides good entertainment as well. More important, however, is the way this entertainment is enjoyed.

"In my own country, the war years and the strain and pressure of our way of life had brought a great change in the average family. Our families had grown apart from each other—each member seeking his own amusements separate from the others. It didn't add up to a very healthy situation for anyone, and it was especially bad for the children. They were growing up away from their parents and missing the warmth, the closeness and the love that can exist only in a happy home. It was a bad condition—and then television came along.

"Within a few years, television sets were in nearly every home in the country and our whole living habit had changed. Instead of running in all directions vainly seeking amusement, Mother, Father, Sister and Brother found it in the last place they'd suspect—right in their own living room.

"They also found that what they were seeking wasn't entertainment at all—it was really just being close together. Now our families have come to realize how much they had been missing, and our homes have come to be 'homes' and not just 'houses.' Our kids have fathers and mothers again, and our fathers and mothers have their kids back with them. That is the real miracle of television . . ."

We think so too, Hoppy.

NEW YORK

Bob Stahl reports:

JACKIE GLEASON has built a profitable parlay for himself in his newest deal. Besides a half hour telefilm version of "The Honeyymooners" each Saturday night, which will continue to star him, ART CARNEY and AUDREY MEADOWS, he also sold Stage Show for the half hour immediately following. This is the DORSEY BROTHERS' show produced by Gleason Enterprises. In addition to the DORSEYS, Stage Show will feature the JUNE TAYLOR Dancers, and JACKIE himself may do an occasional guest chore.

* * *

SAMMY DAVIS, JR., will do his first TV entertaining since his recent auto accident on a special Comedy Hour show originating from Ciro's in Hollywood Jan. 16. . . . MILTON BERLE recently put in his first stint as an NBC production consultant, sitting in with top NBC executives on program planning for 1955.

* * *

SID CAESAR is slated to star next summer in a feature-length movie, which will be written by TV Playhouse author PADDY CHAYEFSKY. It's to be a comedy, of course, but with sympathetic overtones, a la CHAYEFSKY's "Marty" script, on which Hollywood filming was recently completed. . . . CAESAR, meanwhile, plans to swing more toward musical review for his Caesar's Hour. Seems viewers complained about too many "Commuter" sketches.

* * *

That new Adventures of the Kingfish telefilm series, to be telecast Tuesday nights, will include some reruns of the original Amos 'n' Andy films. . . . It's said that plans originally announced for PHIL SILVERS to move into that spot fell through because of PHIL's reluctance to work opposite MILTON BERLE.

Look for JACK CARTER to join the Imogene Coca Show as a permanent foil for IMOGENE. She reportedly feels she needs a side-kick to take the place of her erstwhile partner, CAESAR, same as SID added NANETTE FABRAY to his cast to replace IMOGENE. . . . A new telefilm show to star LEE BOWMAN is in the works, tentatively titled The Bachelor.

* * *

Omnibus will devote the entire 90 minutes of its show at the end of this month to an analytical study of TV's first eight years. Columnist JOHN CROSBY will write the script. . . . With MAX LIEBMAN extremely enthusiastic about PAT CARROLL, look for PAT to do bigger and better things on LIEBMAN's upcoming "spectaculars."

Burlington Mills is planning a big super-spectacular in March, a la the Ford show in June, 1953, to launch a new stocking product. . . . Comedy Hour hopes to telecast an aqua-show from Miami on Jan. 23. . . . Another comic strip goes TV--a pilot film was recently completed on Beetle Bailey, a King Features strip.

GODFREY TALKS

1. Rich. In pain. Why doesn't he quit?
2. His near-fatal hip operation.
3. Why he fears more surgery.
4. What is his secret for TV success?
5. His views on Godfrey vs. Disney.
6. How he feels about Julius La Rosa.

By Bob Stahl

Arthur Godfrey's last hip operation nearly killed him. "During the first 24 hours," he now admits for the first time, "they almost lost me."

When you see him on television, walking without crutches, he is suffering agonizing pain. Another operation might help—but it's a life-and-death gamble. He dreads making a decision to take the chance.

Add to that mental—and physical—torture the fact that he's been the target of harsh newspaper stories. Because he is in the public eye, his methods and motives have been questioned.

The new Disneyland show is offering his toughest competition yet. Godfrey is no longer king of the airwaves on Wednesdays. His ratings have dropped noticeably.

He's a millionaire. He could retire tomorrow, rest his body, live more than comfortably the rest of his life.

So why doesn't he quit?

Godfrey himself supplied the answer to this and other questions in this exclusive interview, one of the few granted since Julius La Rosa was fired in October, 1953.

He talked continuously, for almost two hours, in his New York office, taking time out only to sip tea and, more frequently, to relight a cigar.

Why doesn't he quit? Basically, he said, to keep from becoming depressed because of his hip—and out of loyalty to the "Friends" of Arthur Godfrey and His Friends.

Godfrey went on to discuss various subjects, pulling no punches, speaking his mind.

He admits that his hip is a constant source of discomfort. During a recent program, he seemed only half-kidding when he talked about two little yellow lights technicians had rigged on his desk "to give him better coloring." Actually, though his crutches lay within easy reach as he spoke, he looked healthy and relaxed.

He discounted reports that he is having a running battle with his doctors over the need for a second operation, but listed some reasons why he's far from enthusiastic.

"My hip joint, mechanically, is no good," he said, "and one day I'll have to have the operation done again. I can do everything now but walk. I ride as well as I ever did, I swim a lot, and I'm trying to learn to ice-skate again. My reflexes are as good as ever when I fly. But if I got up from this chair and tried to walk across the room without my crutches, the pain would be almost unbearable.

"But before having them do the operation again, I want to wait a while. I want to wait until the doctors learn a little more about this thing called shock." (Shock, which often follows injury or prolonged surgery, is a serious depression of all the vital processes of the body.)

"I might go into a state of shock," he said, "and never come out of it. Or I might come out of it with only half a brain, or with my liver shot.

"It only happens when the doctors have to relax you 'way down deep. That's necessary for my operation because they have to re-set the hip joint. If they find when I'm on the operating table that one nerve or muscle is still not relaxed, they have to take me down deeper.

"I haven't told this to many people, but in that first operation, for the first 24 hours, they almost lost me during that shock period.

"This operation is quite a deal, as long as there is that danger of shock.

Arthur Godfrey and his friends:

I'm not afraid of surgery. God knows, I've had as much as anybody. The only fear I have in the whole world is being a helpless invalid. I have to decide whether I should stay on these crutches or gamble again.

"Right now, mentally, I can only look down. I know my hip won't get better by itself, so I can't look up."

Keeping busy keeps his mind off his infirmity, said Godfrey. But why does he work quite so hard? "Because it's my life.

"Actually," he continued, "it's only the Wednesday night show that knocks me out. I do that show very foolishly as far as my personal life is concerned. As for personal income, you can write that off in a hurry. Often the things we do cost more than we get for the show, and I have to make up the rest.

"I continue the Wednesday night show mostly for the kids in the cast. Human nature is a funny thing. When the kids were doing only the daily morning program, they thought, 'This is the end—it's the high point of any career.' But for some reason, the columnists and newspaper people bypass our morning show.

"In order to give the kids that very questionable feeling of importance they get from seeing their names in the papers, we put on the Wednesday night show. You can call it loyalty if you like. I do it for the kids. They think it's more 'show business.' They work in a big theater with lights, costumes and backdrops."

Although the new Disneyland has taken a sizable bite out of his Wednesday night audience—the two hour-long shows are in direct competition for half an hour—Godfrey denies he's concerned, and says he's contemplating no format changes.

Recent American Research Bureau figures show Disney leading Godfrey by about five rating points—36.1 to 30.5, enough to topple Arthur Godfrey and His Friends from its usual perch among the Top Ten to 18th place.

Nevertheless, Godfrey insisted, "We have no specific changes in mind for the show," adding, "I'm only waiting for this leg to get better so I can do more visual things (swimming, ice-skating, etc.)."

He welcomes rather than fears competition, he said. "Frankly, I think competition is good for all of us. It will tend to make both our shows better.

"The only reason I'm sorry Disney is on at the same time," Godfrey said with a grin, "is because I can't see his show myself."

Next week Godfrey tells why La Rosa will never again be numbered among his "Friends," points to mistakes TV is making, and worries about losing his own "common touch."

Oops, What He Said!

SPORTSCASTERS STRIKE OUT, TOO

Whenever race horse announcer Clem McCarthy is asked the inevitable "How did you happen to call the wrong horse in the Kentucky Derby?" he invariably answers:

"You couldn't have heard me because it wasn't the Derby, and anyhow, you can't 'lateral' race horses."

Clem, who did actually call the finish of the 1947 Preakness incorrectly, is well aware that any human being will err sometime while calling thousands of races under all sorts of conditions. And his "you can't 'lateral' race horses" phrase sends shivers down the spines of many a sportscaster, particularly the network football announcer who gets himself out of ticklish situations by reporting imaginary "lateral passes" which end up with the right player having the ball.

Every sportscaster has found himself in an embarrassing situation somewhere along the line. Take New York's Guy Le Bow, for instance.

Le Bow was reading the starting lineups before an Eastern Amateur Hockey League game. Just as he was to announce the last player on one of the teams, an engineer brushed the lineup from his hand and it floated away. Being unfamiliar with the visitors, he looked desperately for assistance, spotted a Schaefer Beer sign and improvised: ". . . and playing left wing is Sam Schaefer."

Students of the game still wonder what happened to the sensational Sam

Schaefer who played great hockey for one game and then disappeared.

Then there was the time that Ted Husing was telecasting a St. Valentine's night fight from New York. His post-fight guest, Eddie Eagan, then State Boxing Commission head, came out with this one:

"Thanks for having me, Ted. Isn't this a grand night for valentines?"

Eagan's diction was not up to snuff, and Husing began thinking of unemployment insurance when he heard what sounded like, "Isn't it a grand night for Ballantine's?" (The fight's sponsor: Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer.)

Last year veteran sportscaster Harry Wismer teamed up with announcer Dick Noel to telecast a Green Bay Packers-Detroit Lions football game. At half time, Noel had to give a pitch for his sponsor, a cigaret company. Wismer was somewhere around greeting friends. Part of the commercial was to compare the sponsor's tobacco with that of another leading brand. The incomparable Wismer was now called upon to be the "impartial" judge. Noel held forth the competitor's cigaret for the television audience and then called Wismer over to inspect the quality of the tobacco. Hairbreadth Harry, smiling broadly, astounded the world with, "Why Dick, that's the finest tobacco I've ever seen. What a golden texture! I never . . ."

Noel, swooning, gathered enough strength to interrupt imploringly, "That's fine, Harry, but what about the tobacco in our cigaret?"

With frantic emotion Harry replied, "Superior, Dick. Vastly superior!"

Then there's Mel Allen. Unfortunately for Allen, his two biggest TV sponsors were cigar and beer accounts. Melvin indulged in neither. The first time the TV audience glimpsed Mel puffing on a stogey, the smoke died down and there was Allen, a little woozy, saying, "How 'bout that?"

A few weeks later Mel invited a noted football coach to share the TV screen with him. Coolly Allen lighted up his sponsor's pride and then offered the good coach a puff. The latter casually replied, "Oh, no thanks, Mel. Those things always make me sick."

A sellout crowd at a Cleveland Indian-New York Yankee game at Yankee Stadium witnessed a most famous flub. New York sports announcer Jack Lightcap was reading the opening lineups. It was a very hot night and many fans had draped their jackets and other paraphernalia over the railing of the front-row boxes, which technically put their clothing in fair-playing territory. Noticing this, the umpire quickly sent a message to Lightcap, who opened up his microphone and spoke these words:

"Will the patrons sitting in the front-row boxes kindly remove their clothing?"—Bud Greenspan

Hair-Do's Ahead

From experts who appear on "The Beauty Page" of the Maggi McNellis Show (WABC-TV, New York) come forecasts of hair styles for 1955:

Michel of Paris—Hair will be longer and more feminine. The Italian boy-cut is out. A soft frame around the face is much more flattering than a clipped look, a mannish look.

James Caesar—It's not necessary to get a permanent all over your head. "Partial permanents" are the newest thing and tend to make the hair look more natural. Just do a curl here and there to round out the effect.

Michael of the Waldorf—Hair coloring will remain predominately red and blonde, but in subdued tones. The strong solutions required to make bright, strong shades ruin the hair. Tipping (light streaks in dark hair) is on the increase.

Michel of Helena Rubinstein—For evening, the undulating look will be prominent—wide, smooth waves to complement the new slimmer, trimmer silhouette in formal clothes.

Elizabeth Arden Salon—For day, hair will be disciplined by the new, slightly longer length. It will be brushed away from the forehead with a controlled top width in front, sculptured close in the back. This will be the coiffure adopted by chic women, who always wear hats for lunch.

Maggi McNellis gets tips on tresses as Michel of Paris coifs model June Thompson.

Marlowe To Wed Godfrey Producer

Marion Marlowe is planning to wed TV producer Larry Puck, but her boss, Arthur Godfrey, emphatically denies published reports that the romance led to Puck's being dropped from the Wednesday night Godfrey show.

Marion told a newsman just after Christmas that she had accepted "a six and a half carat emerald-cut diamond engagement ring with lots of baguettes on the sides" from Puck. Puck had not performed his usual Wednesday night duties during the preceding three weeks. Were the two facts related?

"Golly, I don't know," said Marion. "I just can't say. I can't imagine anything like that."

Godfrey told TV GUIDE that Puck had been relieved of his producer status on the Wednesday night show, but insisted that this was done at Puck's request. He said that Puck had been in poor health recently and has been on vacation for the last month. Puck will continue, Godfrey said, as producer of Godfrey's Monday night Talent Scouts.

"When Larry asked to be relieved of one of the shows, I told him I'd take over the Wednesday night program while he vacationed," Godfrey said. "I told him to go out and have himself a ball and not to worry about anything. I worked as producer on three shows, and then told the kids I would take over permanently and let Larry stick to Talent Scouts."

All the furor—and the suspicion that a member of his own team must have spilled the news about his taking over the Wednesday night producing spot—made him "feel sick," Godfrey said. "I feel like I want to throw the whole thing over." But he accused nobody and he told TV GUIDE he would continue on his shows.

"I don't know whether Larry gave Marion a ring," Arthur said. "If he did, she didn't tell me about it. I know he has been friendly with her since his wife died several years ago. But even if they are engaged, that won't make any difference to me. Larry is one of the most valuable men we have, and I certainly don't intend to fire him."

Miss Marlowe freely admitted her engagement. "Larry Puck is just the nicest man I have ever met in my life," she said.

George Jessel to Emcee; Desmond, Valli to Sing; Clifton Utlely, on Hand for Tribute, Will Report Future Plans

With "Toastmaster General" George Jessel as star emcee, TV GUIDE's 1954 Annual Awards Telecast will unfold Monday night, Jan. 10, before a capacity audience at Chicago's Civic Theater. The hour-long spectacle will be televised from 9 to 10 P.M. over WBKB (Channel 7) under the sponsorship of TV GUIDE.

Jessel, currently headlining the Chez Paree review, is rated among the Nation's foremost comedians. His witty commentary is expected to be one of the show's sparkling features.

Fifteen of Chicago's leading television stars will appear on the awards telecast to receive coveted gold statuettes. The stars comprise the 15 top favorites of Chicagoland viewers as determined by TV GUIDE's 1954 awards poll.

Between award presentations, entertainment will be offered by show business celebrities. Guest vocalists already signed include Johnny Desmond and June Valli. Desmond, featured on ABC-TV's Breakfast Club, will be making one of his final Chicago TV appearances before his departure for Broadway. June Valli will perform on the same stage that she graced last year in receiving TV GUIDE's award for the best female singer. Musical accompaniment will be provided by Rex Maupin's ABC-TV orchestra.

A special highlight of the program will be the presentation of an honorary citation to one of the most respected figures of Chicago TV, Clifton Utley.

Utley, WNBQ's famed newscaster, has been absent from TV since being stricken by a crippling illness. His appearance, brought about by a flood of reader inquiries as to his health and future, will be his first before the cameras in over a year.

Names of the 1954 award winners are being withheld until the actual telecast. As a result, with the poll having been widely publicized, suspense has been mounting in past weeks. Speculation is rife along TV row as to how many of the 1953 TV GUIDE champions can repeat their triumphs.

For example, Howard Miller, a double-award winner last year (for best interview show and top favorite show) has encountered much stronger opposition this season.

WNBQ's Clint Youle, the award-winning weatherman, has a formidable challenger in WBBM-TV's P. J. Hoff, to name but one.

Austin Kiplinger, the choice last year as newscaster, has been hard pressed by Jack Angell, John Harrington and Spencer Allen among others.

As the poll progressed, races in nearly all 15 categories loomed as toss-ups. Only shows staged and seen exclusively on Chicago outlets were considered in the voting.

Tickets to the telecast have all been mailed in answer to a record number of requests. Admission will be granted to non-ticket holders as well in the event of cancellations.

TV GUIDE's 1953 Awards Telecast was one of the most talked-about events of Chicago television last season. This year's show, the 6th Annual Awards Presentation, promises to be equally exciting. Don't be disappointed. Set your dial Monday night at 9 P.M. to WBKB (Channel 7).

BOWLING STEALS WNBQ SPOTLIGHT

Encouraged by the inflated ratings of its Saturday night Championship Bowling show, Channel 5 has decided to hypo its tenpin coverage. A new championship bowling show will make its debut this week, but unlike its Saturday night counterpart the show will span only a half hour, 10:30 to 11 P.M., Tuesdays.

The TV pickup is timed to catch the midway point of a three game series. Viewers, thus, are in on all the thrills and suspense of the climax. Matt Nielsen, as usual, will produce the show, and Joe Wilson will be back as the "whispering commentator."

But, WNBQ's piece de resistance is not expected until Sunday, Jan. 23, when the 14th annual all-star bowling tournament reaches its finals. Over 160 men and 65 women are expected to trek to the Chicago Coliseum on Jan. 14 to bowl for $13,955 in prize money. Although the telecast is not definitely set, it's believed that WNBQ will add the semi-finals on Jan. 22 before negotiations are completed.

Cuffnotes: Norm Barry starts his new daily sportscast, 10:25 to 10:30 P.M. this week.

Sports tycoon Morrie Mages' "Sports for Youth Club" has swelled its membership to 3000 youngsters. Over 1500 free passes to sports events have already been issued.

Next Week: Don't miss TV GUIDE's exclusive interview with Chicago's highest-rated sportscaster, Arch Ward. Is Ward really snobbish or humble? You'll enjoy TV GUIDE's portrayal of one of America's most respected sports editors.

Letters to the Editor
YOU TELL TELEVISION

Please address all letters to Regional Editor—TV GUIDE, 6 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 2, Ill.

[Ed. Note: Our recent article, "That Friday Night Free-for-all," dealing with the battle Steve Allen, Howard Miller and Tom Duggan are staging for the late-evening Friday audience, brought forth a barrage of letters from readers. We are grateful for the interest shown in the article. Space does not permit us to print all the letters, but three viewpoints expressed follow:]

A Vote For Steve

Regarding your "Free-for-all" article, I'll take Steve Allen. He's a wonderful entertainer who is witty without being sarcastic. Moreover, I like Steve because he married my favorite, Jayne Meadows. I hope some way is found for Jayne to join his evening show.—Dolly Hall, Chicago.

A Vote For Howard

Since I read your magazine from cover to cover, I came across your article on who is most popular among Friday night late-evening viewers. My friends and I say there is no comparison. Howard Miller always wins first honors. He never misses, whether it's choosing hit records or choosing a wife. His wife, June Valli, has been a pet of mine since her debut on Talent Scouts.—Rita Salteri, Chicago.

A Vote For Tom

In answer to your article, "That Friday Night Free-for-all," my vote goes to Tom Duggan. As is his privilege, he says what he thinks. He's both fresh and refreshing.—G. P. Frost, Rockford.

Poor Memories Excused

Here is my reply to Adrienne Schwartz who says she dislikes seeing a singer forget his lyrics. It happens that singers are human, and like all of us, forget once in a while. Give the singers a break.—Donna Draper, St. Joseph, Mich.

Scouting The Amateur Hour

I enjoy WBKB's Amateur Hour on Sunday afternoons very much. I like the entertainers, the models and everyone on the show, including Mr. Morris B. I especially think Bob Murphy is very nice.—Margaret Lueck, Hammond, Ind. [The above letter was part of a batch received from Intermediate Girl Scouts Troop 158, the members of which are working on their Radio and Television Badge. The girls keep a record of broadcasts heard in their home and write a report on the programs they see.—Ed.]

Murphy

Phillip

"Miss Lee" Now A Mrs.

Could you tell me if "Miss Lee" Phillip is married or not. I know she was engaged. I think she is one of our town's most natural TV stars.—Mrs. Henry J. Barbour, Wilmette, Ill. [Lee was married in October. Her husband is Bill Bell, an advertising man.—Ed.]

Station Addresses

I would like to write for pictures of many of the performers on Chicago television. Could you give me the addresses of WBBM-TV, WNBQ, WBKB and WGN-TV?—Carolyn Schimpf, Calumet City, Ill. [The addresses of all four Chicago stations are printed on page A-1 of each week's issue.—Ed.]

"Yellow Jock"

By Sidney Howord

COLOR Yellow fever was ance one of the dread diseases of the world. Control of the disease came about, around the turn of the century, only through the heroic efforts of medical mortyrs. The hunt that culminated in the discovery of a type of mosquito was described by Poul de Kruif in his boak, "Microbe Hunters." Ploywright Sidney Howord dramatzied the hunt, with the collaboration of de Kruif, titled the play "Yellow Jock" and saw it presented on Broadway in 1934. James Stewart originated the role of O'Hara, later ployed in the movie by Robert Montgomery.

True Western Hospitality

On Saturday morning a few weeks back we visited WGN-TV to see the F Bar F Ranch Show. Afterwards, we met the program host, Arkie the Arkansas Woodchopper, and found him to be a fine, sociable man. He was good-natured and friendly toward everyone present. You seldom find a TV star like that.—Mrs. Gauss, Chicago.

Kudos For Crawford

I would like to give three cheers for Ollie Crawford who writes "Fine Tuning" for your magazine. One cheer for humor, another for cleverness, and a third for accuracy. His column is the first thing I read.—Cathleen Grabske, Chicago.

Someone Cares!

Who does that Sheila Graham think she is, telling us no one is crying over the cancellation of that great program, That's My Boy! I and many of my friends are sadly awaiting the end of that wonderful program. We would really love to see Eddie Maychoff's show stay on.—Eric Williams, Chicago.

An Unmannerly Wrestler

I wonder if Yukon Eric will be allowed to wrestle on television again after the disgraceful way he fought Verne Gagne in December. Mr. Eric should go back to Alaska.—Linda Goff, Sodus, Mich.

He's Too Fat For Her

Jack Carson ought to take off about 40 pounds. It would improve his looks a lot. Actors are usually smart, but they aren't smart if they permit themselves to become potential heart cases. Overweight in middle life is bad.—Georgia Conroy, Chicago.

9:00 2 BOXING—Cleveland, O.

Middleweight elimination bout: Hally Mims, Washington, D.C., vs. Rocky Castellani, Cleveland, O., middleweights, 12 rounds. Russ Hedges reports.

TV GUIDE RATINGS

Rating	Bauts	W	L	D	KO's
Castellani	2	65	57	6	2 14
Mims	3	51	35	11	5 9

Castellani, the local bay, is trying for another shot at Bobo Olson's crown. In Mims he meets a finished boxer who has been steadily improving. Both men stress boxing skills rather than punching power. However each of them has an accasian came up with "surprise" knockouts. Mims has the edge on boxing skill; Castellani is the more experienced.

The George Gobel Show

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

George Gobel demonstrates how the proper care and feeding of a new TV personality pays off. NBC had the new comedy star under contract for more than a year and realized his potential from the start. But the network groomed him carefully via guest appearances. As a result, when Gobel launched his own show this season, he was ready, eager and able.

Gobel rates his zooming popularity and plaudits. His offbeat humor, his wry characterization of a harassed husband and his stock-in-trade sayings add up to one of TV's freshest shows. You can credit this not only to Gobel himself but to a shrewd and adept writing staff.

Obvious dangers lie ahead. Gobel is on three Saturday nights out of four and could fall prey to TV's occupational hazard, overexposure. So far, though, he's been skillfully sidestepping this hazard. Since the country has loudly latched on to "I'll be a dirty bird," George has held use of this and other popular phrases to a minimum. And the basic situations in his sketches are varied enough each week to keep the show funny.

Gobel also has surrounded himself with talented players. Pretty Peggy King is a fine song stylist with an infectious personality. John Scott Trotter, Bing Crosby's orchestra leader since almost the Year One, dittos for Gobel and adds to the fun in the sketches. Jeff Donnell, who often plays his wife, is pleasant and personable. And such weekly guest stars as Vera Vague and Edward Everett Horton mesh nicely with the Gobel humor.—R.S.

His Honor: Mayor Thomas Mitchell, who easily solves problems on TV.

Mayor Of The Town

A visual version of the old Lionel Barrymore radio series, Mayor of the Town is thoroughly routine. Thomas Mitchell plays the meddlesome mayor of a "typical American town"—Springdale, a place to avoid if it is originality and imagination you seek.

The filmed series' plots are trite and unbelievable: 15-year-old girl falls in and out of love with older man in two days, just in time for older man to marry girl's mother; crotchety judge is bitten by dog, jams leash law through town council, softens just in time to save dog for small boy.

It is the mayor, a born fixer if there ever was one, who fixes it for the girl to get fed up with the older man and for the boy to get the dog.

Lacking both scripts and direction, Mitchell merely walks through the proceedings, turning the standard Mitchell reactions on and off as required. Good supporting players are largely wasted. Kathleen Freeman plays a stereotyped housekeeper.

It might be said that no effort has been spared to save money on this one—and every cent saved shows.

TV GUIDE

'I beg your pardon, but your electric razor is ruining our TV picture.'

by Sheilah Graham

TV Turns Tony Curtis Pale;
Wives Berate Joan Caulfield

HOLLYWOOD Film star Tony Curtis turned so pale under his makeup when the floor manager began ticking off the final seconds—"five, four, three, two, one"—before his recent Comedy Hour guest appearance that fellow guest Jeff Chandler rushed over to him, to break his fall.

■ Since Joan Caulfield gave a "stop spoiling your wife" interview, she's been deluged by "a feeling of disgust for the author came over me" type pan mail from irked wives. But Joan is sticking to her blast. "I don't respect a man who picks up hairpins after you," she reports . . . Florence Halop—Mama Bronson of Meet Millie—is wearing an 85 carat aquamarine ring. "From your husband?" I asked. "No," said Florrie. "From Mama Bronson. She gave it to me when her option was picked up."

■ Theme song outside the Ozzie and Harriet set: the thud, thud, thud of a football, as Ricky and David Nelson practice between "takes." Later, on stage, I watched a young beauty kicking off her shoes and phoning David. "There's something very touching about a young girl kicking off her shoes," mused Ozzie . . . Speaking of shoes, Donald O'Connor kicked up his heels while filming his show and a shoe smashed the camera lens into a thousand pieces. And that was the end of production for that day.

■ The reason Gene Autry's sponsor is insisting on live shows is that he wants Gene to make mistakes. Says it's more interesting! . . . Henry Fonda should stop squawking about how much he hates television. A thing like that can get around, and buyers get bashful . . . William Holden wouldn't take a dime for appearing on I Love Lucy. "I didn't want the money," he explained, "because I couldn't deduct it."

■ On Bob Hope's last flight into Los Angeles, two engines conked out over the Rockies. While the pilot flew around and around, Bob quipped, "Hey, what's this guy doing—casing the real estate?" . . . Alan Young is touring tombstones in England . . . From George Gobel: "I was a lieutenant in the Air Force because I was too young to be an enlisted man."

■ Portland, the James Masons' five-year-old bundle of precocity, was visiting her favorite "uncle," George Burns, and using long, long words that thoroughly awed George—and Gracie, too. "If you'd just break one of her words into pieces," gulped George. "you'd have enough conversation for an entire day!"

■ It was an even better show after the William Wellman This Is Your Life. Bill's three-year-old Maggie insisted on auditioning for Ralph Edwards. And for all I know she is still turning cartwheels across the El Capitan stage . . . Eve Arden's six-year-old Connie has never seen her Mama in Our Miss Brooks. But the other night she caught Eve on TV in an old movie, "One Touch of Venus," and complained afterwards, "Mother, why hasn't anyone ever told you it's a secretary, not a schoolteacher, that you play on TV?"

No Johnny One-Note

Gisele MacKenzie: on Hit Parade she sings saucy or demure roles with equal ease.

Gisele MacKenzie Abandoned Violin For Singing and Dancing Career

Up in Toronto, Canada, there's the rather staid Royal Conservatory of Music. . . .

Down in New York, there's the glittering, fast-moving Hit Parade. . . .

And Gisele MacKenzie has starred both places—but she had to throw her violin to the longhairs to get away with it.

Gisele, one of the Hit Parade's singing stars (and dancers), started her professional career as a concert violinist. And she's still convinced that her success is due to the violin which she gave up eight years ago.

"People always ask me whether I think my musical education was all in vain," Gisele said. "And I always answer, 'No.' You see, it was only because of my violin that I was able to play a duet with Jack Benny. Jack later asked me to appear on his radio and TV shows. And two years ago, when I was on tour with him, he learned that Lucky Strike was looking for a singer to replace June Valli on Hit Parade. He put in a plug and that's how I got the job. And I owe it all to my violin."

Now firmly ensconced as a regular on one of the Nation's most popular TV shows, as a recording star and a favorite night club and theater performer, Gisele has little time for her violin—or for many other hobbies. And that includes men, to a degree. Even though she's a warm, vibrant personality—much more so than she seems to be on TV—Gisele lives a real bachelor girl's life. She has occasional dates for dinner or the theater but has no plans right now for marriage—"at least not until the right guy comes along."

Gisele lavishes much of her affection on her two pet long-haired dachshunds. One is named Brunhilde and the other Wolfgang, which naturally comes out as Brunie and Wolfie. She has taught them a number of tricks that would do credit to almost any dog act appearing on Toast of the Town. "But then, of course," she says, "they're real ham-bones—just like me."

It was while she was still studying at the Royal Conservatory in Toronto that Gisele became a singer. During the war, she entertained soldiers at camps and canteens with her violin and occasionally sang. One night a Navy lieutenant asked her if she were a professional singer. Gisele answered haughtily, "No, I'm a professional violinist." He politely suggested that she could earn more money as a singer.

The following summer she phoned the orchestra leader at a Canadian resort hotel for a job as a violinist. He turned out to be that same Navy lieutenant, who had just been discharged from service. He gave her a job, but as a singer. The Navy officer turned orchestra leader is now Gisele's personal manager, Bob Shuttleworth.

After working that summer with Shuttleworth's band, Gisele had her own radio show on the Canadian network. It was titled "Meet Gisele," and she sang pop and folk tunes while accompanying herself at the piano. Later, she moved into guest spots with Edgar Bergen and Morton Downey and finally joined the cast of "Club 15" with Bob Crosby and the Modernaires. That show pushed her into the big-time which, on occasion, she has found confusing.

For example, there was the time she was the featured girl vocalist on a show starring Mario Lanza. Lanza that season was having a contractual fight with M-G-M and was forced to leave the radio program. So for the last five weeks of the season, it was billed as "The Mario Lanza Show, starring Gisele MacKenzie."

Gisele had never danced professionally before joining Hit Parade. During her first day of rehearsal, Tony Charmoli, the Hit Parade choreographer, told her, "On this number, I want you to dance all around the stage." Gisele answered, "You must have been misinformed—I don't dance." "Don't worry," Tony said. "You will by Saturday." She did.

THEIR GLASS SLIPPER: TV FAME

In an old house on West 53rd Street, in the town of New York, live some 50 girls named Cinderella. This old house is the Rehearsal Club, a big, ugly pile of dingy stone, founded in 1913 to provide a quiet home at low prices for girls who wanted to act. The Cinderellas come in all sizes and shapes, but they share a single dream: a footlight career in TV or on Broadway. They are singers, dancers, tragediennes, comediennes, imps, sirens and vamps. They hail from Detroit, Mich.; Moose Jaw, Mont.; from Boston, Mass., and Blue Gum, Miss. Most of them spend months vainly haunting casting offices. Rarely, one finds the glass slipper. Among TV-hopefuls are black-eyed Colette Jackson, from New Orleans, and her roommate, blonde Janina Wynn, from Elizabeth, N.J. Here's how they live.

Roommates practice posture.

After the exercise, Janina Wynn does some washing and then studies script-reading with roommate Colette Jackson.

Hope springs eternal: Colette and Janina arrive at NBC studios in their never-ending search for roles.

HOLLYWOODDan Jenkins reports:

Republic has turned down a TV offer of $4,000,000 for its package of old GENE AUTRY and ROY ROGERS films--and was dismayed at the low figure. Major studios now figure the time has passed when their old films could command high prices from TV. As a result, the old films may remain in their tidy little vaults indefinitely.

Bowl games viewed by record TV audience. Dumb Dora says she didn't know so many football players were bowlers.

One fellow stood and watched all the games, until he was bowl-legged.

Navy met Old Miss, when most sailors would prefer a young miss. They called this the Sugar Bowl, because everybody came out with lumps. Both teams used the T-formation, so this was a case of putting the T in the sugar. It was tough on the announcer who said the Mississippians were playing the midship-shipians.
